

The 1959 Echo

Roosevelt High School
Eastern Michigan University
Ypsilanti, Michigan

The Opening Door

The theme of the 1959 ECHO is "Doorways." We chose this theme because we felt that doorways were symbolic of all the many kinds of opportunities. Today we realize that thirteen years ago, as we stood hesitating on the threshold of kindergarten, we were entering one of the most important phases of our lives--our education was beginning. Since that time we have passed through many doors, each one marking another step in our development. We are now approaching yet another threshold as the doors of high school close behind us. A new and strange sight looms ahead--not yet clear or well defined--the doorway to the future. But as we face its challenge, the knowledge we have acquired from the love and encouragement given us by our parents will be a key for whatever problems may confront us. Therefore, to our parents who have already opened so many doors for us and who have provided the master key for so many more, we respectfully dedicate the 1959 ECHO.

Faculty

Everyone, every day, converges on the mailboxes to discover what is going on around Roosevelt. The office is the hub of all school activity, and to the office come faculty and students and visitors to get information, advice, and sometimes consolation.

Administration tackles school problems

PRESIDENT ELLIOT

Dr. Eugene Elliot, the president of Eastern Michigan College, is an inspiration to all students. In President Elliot we see the leadership, the fairness, and the greatness of a man to whom many students, high school as well as college, look with admiration.

MR. MENZI

As we pass through the last doorway of high school, we can look back and think of the many doorways that were opened for us by Mr. Menzi, our principal. All students look to Mr. Menzi for help and advice, for kindness and gentle consideration, and for firm guidance.

MRS. CROUCH

Mrs. Crouch, attendance officer, is always in her office, ready to hand out white slips, blue slips, and sometimes even yellow slips. She is also ready to give out advice to those who wish it for any problem dealing with college, future career, or personal life. Mrs. Crouch also sponsors G. A. A.

Faculty keeps pace with times

The Mathematics Department under the direction of Miss Margaret Gotts, Mrs. Miriam Shurlow, and Mr. James Northey provides the Roosevelt students with an excellent background in math. Various courses, ranging from seventh grade math to geometry, advanced algebra, trigonometry, and solid geometry are available to the students.

The Science Department, under the direction of Mr. Emile Gosseaux and Mr. Louis Golczynski, is designed to encourage scientific interests and attitudes in various areas such as physics, chemistry, biology, and general science. The pupils are given a knowledge of the natural and physical sciences and are taught how to carry on practical experiments.

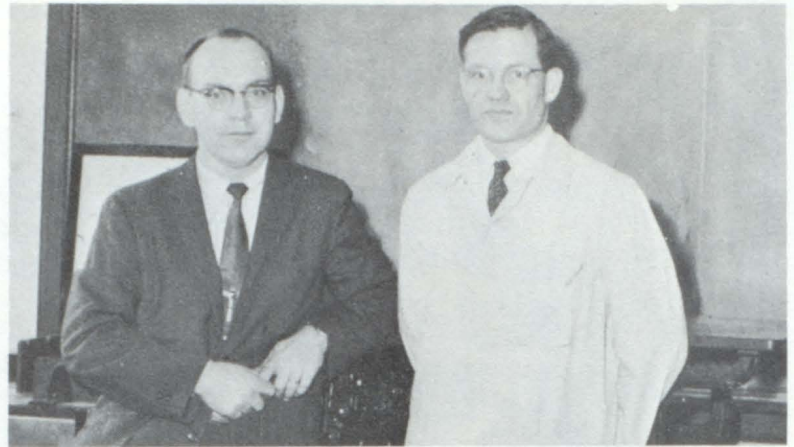

A varied social studies program is offered to Roosevelt students. The junior high social studies classes are taught by Mr. Alister McDonald and Miss Pearle Baxter. In high school students may take Miss Baxter's World History or Mr. Lawrence DeBoer's American Government and most seniors take sociology the second semester.

Varied curriculum

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

The Industrial Arts Department of Roosevelt offers students a chance to develop skills in working with various types of materials which will afford them experience for future work. Through the instruction of Mr. Robert Bendon and Mr. Carroll Osborn, students are given the opportunity to understand better the art of creating practical but beautiful things out of wood and metal.

FINE ARTS

A great change has taken place in the lower halls of Roosevelt. Mr. Roger Armstrong's eighth grade art class has taken upon itself the task of painting a mural on these walls. Many other changes have taken place in room 110. In this room we see neat shelves, stacked with chalk, tempura, oil paint, water paint, and the artistic endeavors of Mr. Armstrong's pupils. This year Mr. Armstrong has formed the Art Guild, a club where students may develop their artistic ability.

COMMERCIAL

When walking by Room 310 one almost always hears the sound of typewriters clicking away. Here, Miss Vera North is instructing students in the skills demanded in office work. The scribbling on the board in room 312 is not scribbling but shorthand, a necessity for a student working toward a secretarial career. Typing and shorthand, plus a course in bookkeeping, compile a well-rounded business education program.

offered to students

MUSIC

Under the guidance of Mrs. Jean Sundquist, seventh and eighth grade students receive training in the fundamentals of music. Mrs. Sundquist also directs the high school chorus. Mr. Maurice Riley heads the active instrumental music department. He conducts band and orchestra and gives private lessons to students wishing special help.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The goal of the Physical Education Department is to provide physical recreation for the students in grades seven through ten. The classes teach students skills in sports, good sportsmanship, and the ability to get along well with other students.

Miss Mary Irene Bell sponsors the girls' Swimming Club, and Mr. A. D. Walker coaches the various sports.

HOME ECONOMICS

The Home Economics Department prepares girls in grades seven through twelve for their future homemaking careers. The new modern kitchens and sewing facilities make up an enjoyable atmosphere for the homemaking students. Through this department students become acquainted with the F. H. A. Club, which is sponsored by Mrs. Barbara Heffington.

Languages are important

ENGLISH

This year our English Department had one of its members, Mr. Roderick Fraser, take a position as an over-seas teacher in Laos. Substituting for Mr. Fraser is Miss Susan Stinson. Miss McAndless was selected as a biographee in the first edition of the 1959 Who's Who In American Women—an honor for herself, the school, and community.

FRENCH

Visitors may be surprised to hear groups of Roosevelt elementary children speaking fluent French. Miss Lucille Langworthy has been teaching French to the elementary school children since 1952 and has recently been teaching French in the junior high. Students can take two years of French in High School. If they wish to continue studying the language while they are in Roosevelt, they can take it with the Eastern Michigan College classes.

LATIN

In our Latin Department we see Miss Virginia Cooper. Miss Cooper shows her students the importance of Latin as the basis of many of our words. She is also a teacher of social studies.

Behind the scenes

LIBRARIAN

Students look to Roosevelt's library for a constant source of material for term papers, themes, and reports. Here they find current magazines, thrilling novels, and up-to-date resource materials. Mrs. Edith Collins or one of the girls she is training for library work is always on duty to help students find materials.

NURSE

With thermometer in hand, Mrs. Geraldine Kress, the school nurse, fights the battle of mumps, flu, and scratched knees. She also checks the health of returning absentees.

Mrs. Barbara Badger, the school secretary, counts the day's receipts.

The custodians, Mr. Ken Kersey and Mr. Clarence Verg Berg, straighten the cafeteria chairs.

Seniors

Each September, a new class steps forward to take the highest ranking position in the school—that of the Senior Class. With this prestige also come many special privileges. The coveted Senior Stairs are proudly used and protected. The class enjoys an exciting senior trip to New York and Washington. The first rows in the auditorium are reserved for the seniors. This final year is a happy and busy one, full of activities and preparation for the years to come. Upon graduation, the doorway to the future lies waiting, and the class must pass through it, relinquishing their seniority to those who follow.

Class History

There were 64 eager freshmen when we began our high school days in 1955. That freshman year was a busy one. We participated in many school activities. We were proud of our status in the high school and tried to excel in all we attempted.

In the fall of '56 the upperclassmen initiated us at the Sophomore Reception, "Autumn Leaves." We were now officially a part of the senior high. At Christmas we sponsored our first high school dance, "Silver Silhouettes." We participated even more in school activities. Many of our classmates held important positions in school.

We began our junior year by putting the class of '60 through its paces at the annual Sophomore Reception, "Autumn Swirl." We wore our class rings with pride. In the spring we participated in the Junior-Senior Play Festival and hosted the Senior Farewell at Charles McKenny Hall. For the year-end picnic we went to Edgewater Park. At last came the Honors Assembly, and we took over the senior section in the Auditorium.

Summer rolled by, and we were now what we had dreamed of being, Seniors of RHS. With the able assistance of our sponsors, Miss Virginia Cooper and Miss Margaret Gotts, we planned for the year's events. We prepared excitedly for the Senior Trip to New York and worked hard on the yearbook. We furthered our abilities in the field of speech and dramatic arts by taking part in the annual Play Festival and contests. After our trip to New York, we suddenly realized that we had only a few weeks left as Roosevelt students and at the Honors Assembly we watched wistfully as the class of '60 took their places as the next leaders of the school. Commencement, June 12, was a day to circle, for each who had done his part walked out of the Auditorium doors with a diploma in his hand, to become alumni of Roosevelt High School.

We, the Class of 1959, would like to express to our sponsors our sincere appreciation of their help and guidance.

Underclassmen

In attending classes at Roosevelt High School, students find numerous doors to achievement. The opportunities for advancing and excelling present themselves at every crook of the path leading to graduation. Students are forever working to make their years in high school exciting and profitable. It is their continuing efforts that make a great school and that make their personal accomplishments noteworthy.

The year began officially for the sophomores when the juniors initiated them into high school. The initiation was followed by a dance -- "Fall Fantasia." Then the sophs entertained the classes of '59 and '60 with the "Snowflake Swirl," the annual Christmas Dance. In March they competed for the Vinora Beal Cup, given each year to the best boy and girl declaimer. The year has been filled with many honors and activities for the sophomore class under the sponsorship of Miss Pearle Baxter and Emile Gosseaux.

The class of '62, our freshmen, had a busy year. They attended senior high dime dances and fun-nights. They joined in many school activities, and the boys participated in sports. In December they held their Christmas party. This year they entertained the school with a delightful comedy, "Haunt Sweet Haunt." Spring brought their first high school dance. Their sponsors are Miss Lucille Langworthy and Louis Golczynski.

When it came to cheering at games, the eighth graders should have been given "A" for effort. Eighth grade girls participated in the swim show in November. In December they decorated the cafeteria for their Christmas party. In the spring the girls competed for positions on next year's reserve cheer-leading squad. During the Honors Assembly they recognized their best citizens with citizenship awards.

Of the present 64 members of the seventh grade, approximately 50 per cent entered Roosevelt for the first time in September. This class proved to be faithful rooters for the athletes of RHS. They displayed remarkable salesmanship during the magazine sale, with sales totaling $970.21. In January they took their first exams, and four of their students, June Cook, Daren Otis, Julie Stewart, and Tom Webb, achieved honor roll status.

Council strives for betterment of school

The annual magazine sale, sponsored by the Roosevelt Student Council, went over the top, with total sales amounting to $5294.74. Under the leadership of Phil Clark, president, Bob Schaefer, vice president, and Karen Gex, secretary, the Council recommended and purchased, many items for the students' use. Among these were a new stereophonic record player, a new piano and viola for the music department, a set of ENCYCLOPEDIA AMERICANA, and new robes for the swim team.

Forty-three Roosevelt students receive valuable business experience from participating in the Ypsilanti Junior Achievement Program. Our students belong to seven companies and make such products as night-lights, record and magazine racks, step-stools, Christmas card holders, Christmas tree stands, clothes racks, snack trays, knife holders, and telephone pads. Seventeen RHS students hold positions as officers of their respective companies. The "Achievers" set up and run their own businesses. They select, produce, and sell a product, thus gaining a better understanding and appreciation of America's free enterprize system. Through this understanding and appreciation, they become better businessmen and better citizens.

"Company---Dismount!"

In November, 35 members of the Roosevelt Sinkopators presented an original water ballet, "Tic-Tac-Splash," based on the television quiz show, "Tic-Tac-Dough." The club was assisted by Judy Morey, Sharon Lee, and Carolyn Ruwitch, narration, and Miss Mary Irene Bell, direction. The club went on the road to perform at the dedication of the new pool at Redford Union Junior High School.

President Pam McClure and Vice President Beth Dykman led the group for the year. In February, the club held a Valentine dance, "Heartbeat Ball."

The Roosevelt Art Guild was organized in September of this year by a group of students interested in arts and crafts. The first project the club undertook was doing the scenery and programs for the annual Swim Club Show. After that, they worked on individual projects and entered many of them in the Art Scholarship contest in Detroit.

Students exhibit forensic talents

Roosevelt students interested in forensics had a chance to display their talents at the annual speech contest held March 17, 18, 19. Approximately fifty students participated in the four categories: Declamations, Orations, Dramatic Readings, and Humorous Readings.

Top declaimers were Maureen Howe, first place, Barbara Buelow, second, and Carol Congdon, third.

In the Oration Contest seven upper-classmen delivered their original speeches. Diane Sovey won first. Edwin Pear and Joyce Wales took second and third.

Taking the honors in the Humorous Reading Contest were Susan Lee, first, Phil Clark, second, and Beth Dykman, third.

Eleven contestants vied for first place in the Dramatic Reading Contest. The cherished position was won by Judy Kutzen. Weslie Wilde and Karen Gex took second and third.

Girl Scouts perform flag ceremony.

Senior Girl Scouts troops were active in community projects this year. At Christmas time, they addressed and stuffed March of Dime envelopes. They took turns in helping the Salvation Army with their arts and crafts program once a week. Individual scouts interested in hospital work helped at the Children's Ward at Beyer Memorial Hospital on Saturday.

Senior Scout Troop #367 worked on service bars and adopted a needy family at Christmas. Seven of their girls were selected to attend the 1959 Senior Roundup - one as a staff member, four as delegates, and two as alternates. In the spring, they spent a weekend in Chicago, shopping and sight-seeing.

The Mariner Scouts, organized in 1955, completed a four-year study of navigation with a week's trip to Lake Michigan.

The Intermediate Scouts worked on their proficiency badges and presented a dance.

The Boy Scouts gained many new experiences through camping and service projects. Troop 31 had several troop tent camping trips during the winter. They rated high in the District Camporees. They participated in two safety projects and finished the year with the Scout-O-Rama and plans for summer camp.

Peggy Porter, editor

The jobs of selecting a theme and organizing a sales campaign confronted the annual staff when they first began work on the 1959 "Echo." Heading up the staff was Peggy Porter, editor. The editorial board consisted of Linda Youngerman, Seniors; Rose Leininger, Underclassmen; Karen Gex, Activities; Dean Howe and Ed Pear, Sports; Barbara Burke, Copy; and Pam McClure and Don Foreman, Photography. Anne Tubbs and Sally Brown were business managers. The staff members quickly discovered the meaning of pre-screening and cropping, and the importance of meeting deadlines.

The Roosevelt school newspaper is now celebrating its 34th year of continuous publication. During its long and eventful career it has garnered many honors. From Room 317 have gone out young men and women who have taken their places with the great magazines and publishing houses of America. Many Rough Riders have won distinction on their college newspapers. Roosevelt can point with pride to the achievements of its editorial staff members. This year's editorial board is made up of co-editors Harold Belcher and Diane Sovey with Peggy Abercrombie as managing editor. The printing adviser is Mr. Robert Benden and the editorial adviser is M. Thelma McAndless.

BAND and ORCHESTRA

The Roosevelt Band and Orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Maurice Riley, participated in many events this year. The band, led by Drum Major Dean Howe and Drum Majorettes Carol Congdon, Peggy Abercrombie, Judy Brixekey and Mary Beth Meyers, marched at the home football games, and at several away games. They participated in community and district parades. Two of the big events of the year were participating in the annual University of Michigan Band Day held in the fall, and in the Eastern Michigan College Homecoming. The year ended with a concert and the annual band banquet.

The Christmas assembly included an excellent concert presented by the orchestra. Many orchestra soloists competed in the solo ensemble festivals, and brought home excellent ratings.

The Roosevelt Choruses performed at many school functions this year under the direction of Mrs. Jean Sundquist, who had previously taught at Negaunee. Miss Lillian Ashby, who had been at Roosevelt since it opened, retired in the spring of 1958.

The Mixed Chorus has eighty-nine members in grades nine through twelve. This group sang at the Christmas Assembly, the Good Friday Assembly, Commencement, and at a fashion show presented in co-operation with the Future Homemakers of America Club.

The Girls' Chorus presented programs at the Thanksgiving Assembly and the Christmas Assembly. Both the Girls' Chorus and Boys' Chorus performed at the fashion show.

Outstanding students receive honors

In the spring of 1958 four students, Edwin Pear, Barbara Burke, Peggy Porter, and Barbara Tate achieved one of the highest honors a high school student can hope to gain. National Honor Society gives recognition to students standing high in scholarship, honor, service, and leadership. Students ranking in the upper third of the junior and senior classes academically are eligible for this society. The faculty elects as many as 10 per cent of the junior class and 15 per cent of the senior class at Roosevelt to this national organization each year.

Each year, three boys and one alternate are chosen from the junior class to represent Roosevelt High School at the annual Boys' State Convention held in Lansing. Boys' State consists of representatives from all over Michigan who set up and run a model government. From the Class of 1959, Edwin Pear, James Nelson, and Robert Dando attended the convention. Henry Wismer was alternate. They are selected by their teachers and classmates on the basis of personality, honesty, leadership, sportmanship, and ability to get along with others.

Edwin Pear, Jim Nelson, and Bob Dando represent school at Boy's State.

Roosevelt beauties reign at Homecoming

Homecoming Queen - Mickey Roesch

On the last night of October at the Roosevelt Homecoming, the queen's crown was placed on the head of a sophomore, Michelene Roesch. Attendants were Sally Brown, senior, Betty Middleton, junior, and Toni Everard, freshman. Caroline Wilson, last year's Queen, was present to crown Queen Mickey.

Sports

One of the things a boy looks forward to in high school is participating in competitive sports. To become a letterman is a prized goal, for in this way he can help his school gain recognition. When a basketball player runs through the locker room door out to the court, he is accepting a responsibility to his school. Others judge Roosevelt High by the students they see. Since our primary source of contact with other people is through sports events, our players must always uphold the highest ideals of sportsmanship and fair play.

Football opens athletic season

Led by Captain Mitch Thomas, the Roosevelt football team registered three wins against five losses. The Rough Riders showed a good passing and running attack but lacked a heavy line in this their last year in the Huron League. Selected to lead the team next year in the newly formed Washtenaw Conference was Ricky Gray.

The Rough Riders, lacking depth, had a disappointing season, winning one while losing fifteen. Coach Art Walker, with only two returning lettermen, Captain Ed Pear and Ricky Gray, had to field an inexperienced team made up of sophomores and juniors.

Although Roosevelt won only one game, they showed plenty of evidence that they would be a tough contender next year in the Washtenaw Conference. Succeeding Ed Pear as Captain is junior Phil Clark.

Take the Telephone Company, for example. Anyone who works for Michigan Bell will tell you it's everything a girl could want in a job.

First, you don't need any experience. You learn your job on the job, and earn a good salary while learning. Raises are regular and frequent; you get annual vacations with pay, plus a host of other advantages.

Another nice thing about telephone work is that you associate with people your own age, just out of school, too. You work in clean, bright, pleasant surroundings. Whether you start as a telephone operator, a teller, or a clerk, you find opportunities for advancement.

We'd like to tell you more about these and other interesting telephone jobs. Visit us soon, won't you?
